Revel, July 2, O. S.

BY Letters from Hangut of the 29th paſt Advice is brought of the Czar's Arrival at that Place with his Fleet; the ſame Advices inform us that his Czariſh Majeſty deſigned to go from thence to Abo by Land, ordering the Ships and Gallies to make the beſt of their Way thither. Yeſterday arrived at this Place M. Puskin, who has been employed at the Court of Denmark; he only waits here for an Opportunity to paſs by Sea to his Czariſh Majeſty, in order to give an Account of his Negotiation.

Copenhagen, July 29. We have had no Letters from Norway ſince thoſe of the 19th. The King of Denmark was then at Stromſtadt, and the 16 Battallions which are to act againſt Maſtrand were imbarked. By the Maſter of a Ship taken and ſent hither by Admiral Tordenſchiold we learn, that the Danes began to bombard the Caſtle of Maſtrand on Saturday the 22d at Two a Clock in the Morning, and continued firing all that Day and the Day after, when the Maſter came away.

Berlin, July 29. M. Maaſh, who had been taken by the Muſcovites in his Return from Stockholm and came hither ſome Days ago, has been with the King at Potſdam, to make his Report of the State of Sweden, and of his Uſage at Petersbourg, where his Papers were ſiezed and examined. M. Loos, Mareſchal of the Court of Saxony, has been here ſome Days. Mr. Whitworth, the King of Great Britain's Miniſter, is frequently with his Pruſſian Majeſty.

From the Camp before St. Sebaſtian, July 30, N. S. The Siege of this Place is ſo far advanced, that we expect to be Maſters of the Town To-Morrow or next Day. Our Trenches are carried on to the Covered Way, and the Breach is in ſo good a Condition that Deſerters come down it in the Day-Time to our Trenches. The Beſieged have made a very mean Defence, having not attempted to make ſo much as one Sally; ſo that we have loſt but very few Men. The King of Spain remains with his Army about Pampelona.

Paris, Aug. 6, N. S. This Morning Brigadier Bulkeley arrived here, being ſent by the Marſhal Berwick with an Account, that on the 1ſt Inſtant about Eight in the Morning the Governour of St. Sebaſtian beat a Parley: He demanded that Part of his Garriſon ſhould be allowed to march out of the Town thro' the Breach with all the Marks of Honour, and the reſt to retire into the Caſtle; but was anſwered, that all muſt march into the Caſtle or none; whereupon he delivered up one of the Gates of the Town to the French, and retired with all his Troops into the Caſtle.
